Kettering Medical Center

The Kettering College Story

Located on a suburban campus near Dayton, Ohio, Kettering College is a coed college offering certificate programs, two-year associate of science degrees, bachelor degrees, a Master's Degree in Physician Assistant Studies, and an Occupational Therapy Doctorate.

The college and its owner, Kettering Medical Center, were founded by Eugene W. Kettering, son of inventor Charles F. Kettering, and his wife Virginia W. Kettering. He donated 35 acres of family property for the medical center and a future college.

Our goal is to help our students do their absolute best while they are with us. Everything about Kettering College is meant to support an enjoyable, productive, and mission-based learning experience. Here students experience personal and professional growth in a challenging educational setting.

Why Kettering College?

If health care is your calling, the place to start is right here.

10 to 1 students to teacher ratio

Small classroom sizes and student/teacher ratio create intimate learning atmospheres where students can't fall through the cracks. We foster connectedness with faculty and fellow classmates.

50 years of graduates

Kettering College has been placing our graduates in the most in-demand areas of health care for nearly 50 years.

Offering 8 healthcare specialties

We offer degrees in 8 areas of healthcare specialty, each one with streamlined coursework and early hands-on practical experience.

More than 800 current students

We have over 800 students and boast a pass rate of over 90% in state and national licensure board examinations.

2+2 Bachelor of Science in Nursing

The 2+2 pre-licensure BSN degree is an innovative 4-year program designed to prepare individuals for professional registered nursing practice and leadership. The degree consists of 127-128 semester credits, including 64 credits from arts and science courses and 63 nursing credits.

Students begin by taking two prerequisite years of general education courses at Hong Kong Adventist College under the affiliated program with Andrews University. Students will transfer to Kettering College and begin nursing courses in year 3.
